TAFT'S NOMINATION SURE

Roosevelt Whipped to a Frazzle and Delegates Disorganized

Convention to Meet This Morning at 11 O'clock to Finish Its Work

COLISEUM, CHICAGO, June 20th—Order is coming out of the chaos. Events, following each other with lightning-like rapidity, are beginning to clarify the situation.

Theodore Roosevelt stands crushed by defeat. His following has become disorganized.
Actuated by a desire for revenge, his one hope is to turn the tide toward a third man, perhaps Governor Hadley of Missouri. The inevitable trend is toward Taft.

Tomorrow the credentials report and the proposed platform will be considered by the convention. The nomination may then be reached, but in all probability it will go over until Saturday. An effort will be made to clean up the work on that day, so that conferences looking to the selection of a Vice Presidential candidate will soon be in order.

President Taft's strength is growing steadily.
Six delegates from the South came over today.
Others are prepared to do so. It now seems likely that President Taft's vote on the first ballot will far exceed any of the estimates of his strength recently published.

NOMINATION MAY GO OVER TILL TOMORROW

The convention convenes again this morning at 11 o'clock.
The plan of the Taft managers is to hold day and night sessions and press the work so that nominations can be reached Saturday and the convention be brought to a close in the hours of Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

FOR PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

A Missouri judge rules that a barber is not an artist, but a good many of them are accomplished linguists.

Andrew Carnegie stays in Scotland until each presidential cyclone blows over.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Speaking of elastic currency, a Cleveland youth managed to spend $50,000 a year on a salary of $15 a week.

It is now possible to remove the appendix in two minutes, but, sad to relate, surgeons are not paid by the hour.

A postman walks about fourteen miles a day, and then lots of people who were expecting letters do not get any.

The Democrats seem bound to make the Tariff the football of politics, however much it disarranges and interferes with business.

After Taft had been nominated for President four years ago Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I feel that the country is indeed to be congratulated upon the nomination of Mr. Taft. I have known him intimately for many years, and I have a peculiar feeling for him because throughout that time we have worked for the same object, with the same purposes and ideals."

"I do not believe there can be found in the whole country a man so well fitted to be President. He is not only absolutely fearless, absolutely disinterested and upright, but he has the widest acquaintance with the nation's needs, without and within, and the broadest sympathies with all our citizens."

"He would be as emphatically a president of the plain people as Lincoln, yet not Lincoln himself would be freer from the least taint of demagoguery, the least tendency to arouse or appeal to class hatred of any kind."

"He has a peculiar and intimate knowledge of and sympathy with the needs of all our people—of the farmer of the wage-worker, of the business man, of the property owner. No matter what a man's occupation or social position, no matter what his creed, his color or the section of the country from which he comes, if he is an honest, hard-working man, who tries to do his duty toward the country he can rest assured that he will have in Mr. Taft the most upright of representatives and the most fearless of champions."

"Mr. Taft stands against privilege and he stands pre-eminently for the broad principles of American citizenship which lies at the foundation of our national well-being."

City beautification plans calling for the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars have been drawn for seventy or more American cities.

This was one of the interesting facts brought out at the recent national conference on city planning in Boston.

It was admitted that, while some of these plans were already being worked out, many are still on paper, with the prospect that not a few of them will get no farther. Some of them are considered as too elaborate and involving too extravagant an expenditure ever to be realized. Nevertheless, the fact that so many cities are even seriously considering such questions shows the tendency of the times.

It is a tendency in marked contrast to what was noted in this country until a comparatively few years ago. Had our forefathers possessed a modicum of the firm belief in the actual money value of the city beautiful idea that the latter-day American holds the problems would be much less difficult and the expense much smaller.

Viewed by modern standards the old habit of American cities of allowing themselves to grow up haphazard can only be regarded as short-sighted and expensive. But vain regrets over the penny-wise pound-foolish mistakes of the past lead nowhere. It is the American city which, taking conditions as it finds them, makes an earnest and determined effort to achieve the city beautiful ideal that shows real wisdom and will secure real profit.—Times-Star.

Foolish Philosophy.

The jury sometimes refuses to convict on circumstantial evidence, but the neighbors never do.

The men have their faults, but there is this to say for them: they do not kiss each other.

We have often wondered what George M. Cohan specialized in prior to his discovery of the American flag.

A gentleman is a gentleman. A "party" is a man who gets his hair cut Saturday afternoon.

A newspaper for hoboes has been planned. Which recalls the fact that W. R. Hearst has been printing newspapers for the feeble-minded for a number of years.

If you have lost anything, do not fool away your money advertising for it. Look in the Constitution of Oklahoma.

The movement to abolish the college yell is not important. It is the College prank that needs editing.

REAL CATTY.

Judge.
Miss Caustique—You shouldn't smile so much my dear. It is dangerous.
Miss Passay—Dangerous?
Miss Caustique—Yes, when a smile lights up your face it might set off the powder.

MRS. ETHEL VICROY McLAUGHLIN.

Greenbrier Independent, (Lewisburg, W. Va.) June 12th.

Among the many unexpected deaths that have startled and shocked our community during the past year none have been more sudden and unexpected than that of Mrs. McLaughlin. She had been sick, but was apparently improving and walked down town the day before her death to attend to some shopping, and was warmly greeted and congratulated by her many friends upon her recovery. When, the next afternoon (June 6th), the sad news of her death by paralysis was telephoned over the town it seemed almost unbelievable.

Mrs. McLaughlin was a native of Mayville, Ky., and for three years prior to her marriage was connected with the Lewisburg Seminary. In October, 1910, she was happily united in marriage to Mr. William McLaughlin and their married life began happily in the beautiful new home he had erected in the East end of town. To the making of this home she consecrated all the energies and lavish wealth of a good woman's heart, and sanctified it by the sweet and gracious atmosphere of a good woman's soul. Possessed of a genial, cheerful and sunny disposition she had many friends, and a happy and useful life seemed assured to her. She was a bright, sunny Christian; from girlhood a member of the Christian Church, but transferred her membership after marriage to the Presbyterian Church in order to be in the same communion with her husband.

At the quiet sunset hour, when twilight fragrant with the perfumes of summer was casting her purpling mantle over the earth, a brief and simple service was conducted at the home by her Pastor, Rev. D. P. McLesch, and the casket was tenderly borne by loving hands to the train to be transported to her old home in Kentucky for burial.

As I stood in the sad and hushed assembly, where grief and sympathy mingled, and watched the light fade over the hills and remembered how near the sunset hour her frail hands had slipped the cord of life as she gently glided out at the tide, I could not but recall once again the noble lines of our modern poet prophet:

"Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea."

But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns at ebb again.

Sunlight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark!
For tho' from out our bourne of time and place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to meet my Pilot face to face when I have crossed the bar."

KICKERS' CORNER

If any one at any time for any reason has any cause to "kick" in any way at anything of any kind, here's the place to say his say. The door is open—walk right in and help yourself, free gratis and for nothing—but don't make your "kick" too long—it's the short, quick fellows that count—and cut.

The name of the kicker must accompany the kick, or it'll be kicked into the waste-basket.

MAYSVILLE, KY., June 19th, 1912.

Editor Public Ledger:

In regard to oiling of the streets, the article which appeared in THE LEDGER column some time since under the head of the "Kicker's Corner" and the coat paid out of the general levy, the answer, as I understand, came from a city official, claiming it would cost too much, etc. By a little investigation, I have found out Paris and Flemingsburg oil their streets and pay for it out of their general levy. They figure it not only gives a more uniform and better way to keep the streets rid of dust, but that it pays from a financial standpoint. I don't see if places like these can use oil, why not Maysville? I think a little more investigation by the city official may convince him the cost would not be in the way.

A WORD WITH WOMEN

VALUABLE ADVICE FOR MAYSVILLE READERS

Many a woman endures with noble patience the daily misery of backache, pains about the hips, blue, nervous spells, dizziness and urinary disorders, hopeless of relief because she doesn't know what is the matter.

It is not true that every pain in the back or hips is trouble "peculiar to the sex." Often when the kidneys get congested and inflamed, such aches and pains follow.

You can tell it is kidney trouble if the secretions are dark colored, contain sediment; the passages are too frequent or scanty. Then help the weakened kidneys. Don't expect them to get well alone.

Doan's Kidney Pills have won the praise of thousands of women. They are endorsed at home—Read this Maysville woman's convincing statement:

Mrs. Sam Neal, 497 West Second street, Maysville, Ky., says: "Although I have never used Doan's Kidney Pills myself, I can recommend them. One of my family had a great deal of trouble from his back and kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills made him entirely better and he always praises them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

OUR WEEKLY SPORT LETTER

BY C. H. ZUBER.

CINCINNATI, O., June 20th, 1912.

With the New Yorks holding first place in the National League by a large margin, the interest in the race in Tom Lynch's circuit now centers in second position, which is being hotly contested for by the Chicago, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati teams. These aggregations are so closely bunched that a switch in position takes place almost daily, and this condition of affairs promises to continue for some time to come, as none of the three teams seems to have a noticeable advantage of its rivals. A pleasing feature of the Reds work has been the improved form shown by the pitching department in recent games. Fromme, Benton, Humphreys and Suggs all developing good form in their recent battles, a condition that augurs well for the series of games which the team will play at home, beginning this week.

These games also will have a decided bearing on the standing of the team in that majority of those to be played early in the team's campaign on the local lot will be with the Pittsburghs, who, among other dates, will be here on Sunday, June 23—the first Sunday game the Reds have played on the home lot since the New Yorks were here, five weeks ago. The following Sunday Roger Bresnahan and his recognized St. Louis Cardinals, will be the Reds' opponents.

Manager O'Day expects to show several new twirlers during the time the Reds are on the home grounds. The big man, Fletcher, looks more promising every time he is worked out, and he is likely to get several trials in the box in the near future. Cornwell, the left hander from Huntington, West Virginia, has made a good impression in his practice work, and is to have ample opportunity in regular games to demonstrate his ability. Cramer, who was secured from the Frankfort team of the Blue Grass League, and who hails from Bedford, Ind., also is with the team and may be worked at any time. While none of these men are touted as Mathewsons or Walter Johnsons, they have shown enough class to entitle them to serious consideration.

The fact that three or four clubs in the American League are giving his world's champions the dust at this time does not seem to be worrying Connie Mack Manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, may recall the fact that his team worked to the top last season after a start no better than that which the team enjoys this season, and he fully expects his gang to work the same system this season. None of his men have gone back, none are injured, and the team is practically the same as that which won the big honors last season, so there seems to be no great reason to discount his optimism. Meanwhile the big sensation in the American is Clark Griffith's Washington team, which, with a record of sixteen consecutive victories on the road, has established a record that will have to be shot at a long time before it is equalled.

Now comes a physician of New Mexico who declares that J. Johnson's powers of endurance in the ring are limited, owing to the fact that he lacks chest expansion, and consequently is likely to be shy on steam if the fighting becomes as all butsterious. Flynn, on the contrary, is declared to be as near perfect as possible—perfectly healthy, round in every respect, and with a chest expansion that will add greatly to his efficacy in a strenuous mix-up. At last accounts Johnson weighed 218 pounds and Flynn 196. According to Tommy Ryan, who has been working with Flynn, the Pueblo fireman will surprise the ring followers with his cleverness and strength when he meets the black champion on the morning of July 4th at Las Vegas, New Mexico.

With the mermaids, sea gulls, lobsters and sharks as spectators, the 103 athletes now crossing the Atlantic on their way to uphold Uncle Sam's prowess in the Olympic games at Stockholm, Sweden, the latter part of this month and early in July, are giving daily exhibitions of their skill as stars on the track and field. A running track has been built on the steamship Finland, while deck room also been set off for the field event. Several days of unsettled weather have made this floating athletic field rather wobbly, but the men work just the same, and promise to be in fine form to do their finishing training when they arrive in Sweden.

A new record for odds on a horse race was established at Latonia on Monday when the pari-mutuel machines paid $942.75 for every dollar wagered on Wishing Ring in the sixth race. Only four bets were recorded on the horse at the track, each being for $2, so that the lucky ones carried away $1,885.50 as a reward for their confidence in the ability of the filly to beat her more prominent opponent. One of the lucky four was a woman. Four dollars were bet for place, netting each better $644.00, while 10 place bets netted $172. There was a total of $7,939 in the pool. The highest previous odds recorded on a winner were made at Chicago nearly twenty years ago on a horse called Paytonia.

Charles II, the Merry Monarch

"Here lies our sovereign lord, the King, Whose word no man relies on; He never says a foolish thing, Nor ever does a wise one."

THIS scurrilous verse was found scrawled one morning on the bedroom door of his majesty, King Charles II. of England. The king read the rhyme, smiled carelessly at the horrified courtiers and passed on. Another man might have taken offense at being thus lampooned. But Charles had two remarkable traits that saved him much bother: He never carried a grudge and he never felt gratitude.

He knew well enough that this particular doggerel was the work of the graceless earl of Rochester, the man who in another poem alluded to Charles as "A merry monarch, scandalous and poor." Yet he did not trouble himself to punish or even to snub the earl. Nor would he have rewarded Rochester for saving the whole royal family from death. That was the sort of man the "Merry Monarch" was.

When Charles II. was a mere boy his father, Charles I., had been overthrown and beheaded by England's "Parliamentary Party." The young fellow had not stayed in England to fight to the death in his father's cause. Instead he had slipped over to Holland, where he was living in jolly security. But on hearing of the king's execution he promptly proclaimed himself "King Charles II." The proclamation did him little good. For the parliamentary party (with Oliver Cromwell at its head) had for the time made England an impossible place for kings.

Still, the Scotch, ever restless (and probably forgetting they had betrayed and sold his fugitive father to the English), offered to make Charles their king if he would give them certain promises. These promises seemed to him disgraceful. Yet a promise was one thing that Charles was always willing to give, knowing he could readily break his word later. He went to Scotland and in 1651 was crowned. Then he invaded England. Cromwell quickly routed him out of both England and Scotland and sent him scuttling to France for safety.

But when Cromwell died, England grew tired of Puritanism and the parliament's rule and the people gladly welcomed Charles home as their king. It was the beginning of modern England, and of a reign whose profligacy and scandals set the whole world agog. Charles embarked at once on a life of pleasure. He turned a deaf ear to the pleas of those who had begged themselves in behalf of his father and himself. He said he had no money to spend on such people. But he squandered fortunes at the gambling table and in heaping wealth and rank upon such women as he chanced to fancy.

He neglected and ill-treated his homely little wife, broke state pledges at will, lavished money on low favorites and mismanaged the nation. Rochester in calling him "a merry monarch, scandalous and poor," had but spoken the truth. He was merry—at the country's expense. His life was one long scandal. He was forever poor, because he was a spend-thrift.

Charles's chief advisers were five noblemen (Clifford, Ashley, Buckingham, Arlington and Lauderdale), who aided him to defy parliament and cheat the people. The first letters of these men's names in order spelled "Cabal," and the oddly coined word has ever since been used to describe any conspiracy against the state. To get money for his own purposes Charles sold two English towns to France. He also accepted a large yearly sum of money from the French king (Louis XIV.) to act in that monarch's interests. All this did not add to his popularity with his own people, who hated France.

In 1663 war broke out between England and Holland. A Dutch fleet invaded England, sailed up the Medway river as far as Chatham, destroying everything in its path. London in 1665 was swept by the plague and in 1666 by fire. Plots, religious disturbances, national discontent—all sorts of misfortunes piled up. Through it all the Merry Monarch pursued his calm, blackguardly way, seriously disturbed by nothing; enriching vice and allowing virtue to starve; his life and his court the scandal of the civilized world. He would probably have been assassinated were it not that his brother James—duke of York, the most unpopular man in England—would have succeeded him as king. For Charles and the queen had no children.

In February, 1685, Charles II. died. To the last he was the Merry Monarch, whimsically begging his courtiers' pardon "for being such a long time in dying." Courage, wit and jolly nature were his only good qualities. There were perhaps still fewer bad ones he did not possess.

Peculiar Accident With Fatal Result

Tuesday afternoon John Schwendeneck, aged 40, a bachelor, living with his parents, Daniel Schwendeneck and wife, on the Jackin Ware farm 12 miles East of this city, while picking cherries fell from the tree to the ground, only a distance of 7 to 8 feet, breaking his neck.

SUDDEN DEATH
Of Joseph Tureman Wood in Pittsburgh Last Afternoon

The sad intelligence of the death of Mr. Joseph T. Wood, which occurred yesterday at Pittsburgh, Pa., was received here last evening by his father. The short telegram simply announced that he was found dead in his room by his brother-in-law, Mr. Lewis K. Parry.

The deceased was the youngest son of Dr. James J. Wood of Forest avenue, and was born in this city January 31st, 1881. At the time of his demise, and for the past four years, he was local representative in Pittsburgh for Parke Davis & Co., of Detroit, Mich., one of the largest drug houses in the United States. He was a thorough business man, and by inheritance a born gentleman; genial and sociable in manner and popular with all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

The bereaved father, brother and sisters have the sympathy of the entire community in their loss and great sorrow.

Besides his venerable father he is survived by one brother, and three sisters—James B. Wood, Misses Letitia and Mary Wood of this city, and Mrs. Elizabeth Parry, of this city, who is soon to join her husband in Pittsburgh.

The remains will be brought here for interment in the family lot in the Maysville Cemetery. Funeral announced later.

Maysville 3, Lexington 2, first game.
Maysville 1, Lexington 0, second game.

By winning both games here yesterday, Maysville clinched her hold on second place and is now crawling up on the leaders, Frankfort.

Both teams played excellent ball, but the Rivermen were too strong for the frisky Colts, and beat them out at every point, both in fielding and batting.

Weiman, six feet, seven inches tall, pitched wonderful ball in the second game, only allowing the visitors two hits and no bases on balls. Both their hits were made in one inning.

Lexington protested the first game on account of the following play:

In the second inning Langenham walked, Carmony sacrificed, Clever walked, Woodruff hit to short, Curtis threw to the plate and Clever ran to third, so did Langenham. Badger touched both men, but Umpire Kelley only called Langenham out. Badger protested.

Public SALE!
Mrs. T. V. Nesbit, having decided to leave Maysville, has placed with us her desirable real estate holdings on East Second street, Fifth Ward, which we will offer at Public Sale, on Thursday, June 20th, 1912 at 2 o'clock p. m. on the premises. This property consists of a 2-story brick residence that has, since the advent of natural gas into our city, been converted into two beautifully appointed flats, which are modern throughout.

Also the new 2-story frame house, just completed containing 6 rooms and 1 large bath on both floors, with bath, electric lights and gas. A more complete and up-to-date home is not to be found in Maysville.

At the same time we will sell the vacant lot, between residence and Walnut street, there being about 185 feet frontage on Second street and running back 165 feet to an alley. This will be divided up into lots of equal size and be offered both separately and as a whole.

Perhaps no more desirable lot of real estate has been or will be offered in Maysville for some time to come. East Second street is the street of beautiful homes, and property in this section of the city is fast passing into strong hands, and it is more than likely that within a very short space of time you will pay a high price for if you own a home in this part of Maysville.

Terms will be easy and satisfactory to buyers of all classes.

Guarantee

The word itself means a good deal more than the talk often. It's a good word. The importance of the talk about it depends on who's talking. Hart, Schaffner & Marx are the largest and best makers of good clothes in the world. They send out a "guarantee" with their goods that means what it says. Come here for them and all good things to wear—Shirts, Hats, Shoes, Underwear.
